GROUND VS. UNGROUND GRAIN FOR HOGS

An experiment to ascertain if it is profitable to grind grain for hogs was carried out at the Dominion Experimental Station, Lacombe, Alberta, with fall pigs during the fall and winter of 1932-33 and 1933-34, and with spring pigs during the summer of 1933. A total of 12 pigs of purebred Yorkshire and Tamworth breeding and the crosses of these two breeds, averaging 18 pounds in weight at the commencement of the test, were used in the three experiments. Both lots were well-fed the same basic ration consisting of oats and barley, the only difference being that one lot was fed with whole grain and the other lot finely ground grain. Buttermilk was supplied to each lot once daily, as well as all the water they wished to drink.

Based on the three year average, the pigs fed ground grain made appreciably more rapid gains than those fed whole grain. While the pigs fed whole grain grew at the rate of only 0.91 of a pound per day, the pigs fed ground grain made 1.22 pounds daily, or an increase of 31 per cent.

Starting with 86 pound pig, it took 81 days for the ground grain fed lot to obtain an average of 200 pounds, while 109 days were required for the lot fed whole grain. It was also necessary to put the whole grain fed lot on ground grain for the last 18 days in order to put on the proper finish for market. Besides the extra 18 days, it required 343 pounds of ground grain per pig to produce the proper finish demanded for select bacon hogs.

Under the conditions of this experiment, the cost of feed to produce one hundred pounds of gain was in favor of the whole grain fed lot. It would seem, therefore, that in times of low prices for grain and hogs one might be justified in self-feeding hogs weighing approximately ninety pounds a ration of whole grain until they have attained a weight of approximately 170 pounds, when they should be finished for market on ground grain.

It is also worthy of mention that the lot fed whole grain were decidedly lacking in finish, they were well grown, were thrifty in appearance, and were of good bacon type, indicating the possibilities in this method of feeding for the growth and development of gilts to be retained for breeding purposes only.

Stevens Resigns Bennett Cabinet

Ottawa, Oct. 31—Hon. H. H. Stevens has resigned as minister of trade and commerce from Bennett administration and as chairman of the price spreads and mass buying commission. His resignation was placed in the hand of Premier R. B. Bennett at 11:41 yesterday afternoon.

The famous pamphlet issued early in August by Mr. Stevens had been made the centre of innuendoes against him, said Mr. Stevens today.

The inquiry of which he was chairman was into a system of economics and methods of merchandising and not an inquiry into individual firms.

As his resignation had been discussed in the public press, both last evening and this morning, it was only in justice to himself he should make a statement, he said. "Shown" the statement in the press this morning and last night, Mr. Stevens stated that in his opinion the public were not interested in, nor would they be swayed by vague legal technicalities. "I discharged my duties," he said, "which were most onerous and difficult, for a period of nine months to the best of my ability without in any way sparing myself, and I deny absolutely the alleged improprieties in my conduct."

"It must be borne in mind that this was an investigation into a system of economics and methods of merchandising, and not an inquiry into individual firms, and names of persons were only mentioned where it was necessary to do so to discuss methods followed and practices indulged in."

"Furthermore, the new famous pamphlet has been made the centre of the innuendoes against me. Let me say that, the only conversation I have ever had with the Premier on the subject of that pamphlet prior to Thursday last was in a brief five-minute conversation over the long-distance phone, when I was in Winnipeg and he was speaking from Ottawa."

"At the conclusion of that conversation I was left with the impression he was satisfied with the explanation I had made."

"From that day, August 1st, down to last Thursday, I did not receive a single word from him on the subject."

"The task to which I was allotted could only be discharged if one had the whole-hearted support and co-operation of the prime minister and his colleagues. The criticisms that have been directed against me in the last few days from government circles makes it abundantly clear this no longer exists and my position becomes intolerable."

"As my resignation has been discussed in the public press, both last evening and this morning, without any available having been issued by me on the subject, I think it is only in justice to myself to say that yesterday noon, at a quarter to one, my resignation as minister of trade and commerce and as chairman of the price spreads committee was sent by me to the prime minister, and up to the present I have heard no more of it except through the columns of the public press."

Poppy Day Set for November 10

The symbolism of the poppy, the symbol of remembrance, the red bloom, takes a deeper significance with each succeeding year. The great war is passing almost into legend; a generation is being called the duty of carrying into the years that have yet to come the work and the ideals of those whom the poppy commemorates.

Canada has adopted the poppy as a symbol because of the 66,000 graves in France and Belgium in which lie the dead of the preceding generation, because of the 170,000 Canadians who were killed in the war, because of one kind or another.

The crosses in the cemetery of Flanders are garlanded with poppies; the emblems of a nation's growth consumed in the "war-ruth" of the world.

On Poppy Day this Dominion pauses in its normal activities to recall the sacrifices of its young men, to pay tribute to their heroism, their heroism, and the uncomplaining fortitude with which they bore the privations and sufferings. At the time, Canada strives to liquidate in some small measure an obligation to those disabled men employed in the veteran workshops of the country, whose only means of livelihood is the making of these simple emblems.

All Canadians of every age and degree should wear a symbol on Poppy Day. For that is surely a day of remembrance and of rededication to the work on hand of continuing the structure of civilization where the workers of a previous generation left off.

Let's all wear a poppy on November 10th.

C. G. I. T. Group Holds Conference

Approximately 180 girls and their leaders, attended the C.G.I.T. Conference which was held in Lacombe on Saturday, Oct. 27th. Registrations included the following leaders: Mrs. J. C. McEldown, Bentley; Miss Edith Walker, Blackfalds; Miss Frances Warren, Oliver; Miss Winnie Hollis, and Miss Mrs. Oldford, Horn. Hill; Miss Hunsaker, Miss H. Worstell and Mrs. Lane of Ponoka; Miss Mrs. Beattie, Mrs. J. A. Arnold and Miss Edna Paul of Red Deer; Miss Mrs. Agnes, Miss K. Newton, Miss T. Kingsbury, Miss D. Saver and Miss E. Layton, of Lacombe. The morning session was opened in the Church Hall by the introduction of groups and leaders and was followed by a period of "warming up" games. A cordial welcome to all guests was extended by Mary Gilmore, President of the Lacombe Senior Group, following which nominations and election of officers was held. Marjorie Newton of Red Deer was elected President and Louise Todd, of Lacombe, Secretary. Kate Klein, Lacombe, Press Secretary. Referring to the United Church, members joined in a worship period and then divided into groups for the study of "Peace," this being the theme subject of the conference. Local girls entertained the visitors in their homes during the "luncheon hour."

An enlightening talk on India, its geography, government, customs and habits of the people, difficult with "sitting" bodies, beauty of the scenery and historical facts pertaining to some of their buildings, was given by Miss E. Osborne, Matron of the Lacombe Hospital, who at one time lived in India as a Nurse. Three study groups were then formed to read up "Hinduism," "Buddhism," "Islam," and "Judaism." These were led by Miss Sweet, Miss Kingsbury and Miss Constance Smith. An amusing comedy, "My Hilt" which was greatly enjoyed was played by Kay Craigie, Eleanor Hargrave, Phyllis McCauley and Barbara Chesser, all of Lacombe.

Following supper which was served in the Church Hall, vote of thanks to the Missionary Society and Mothers of the local girls who prepared the supper, also to the girls who put on the play, the Director and Miss Osborne, was moved by Beth Monroe and seconded by Dorothy Duncan. Best projects carried on by their groups were then told by Fern Lynne, of Ponoka, whose group had repaired and renewed old dolls for Sunshiners; Gertrude Kaye of Sylvan Lake, whose group had taken up Silhouette painting with remarkable success; Agnes Farewell of Blackfalds, whose group had studied the book "Little Women"; had done the play in Red Deer, and then discussed difference between the book and the play; and by Grace Mills of Red Deer, whose group had made an Autograph Quilt. Camp reports were given by Doris Bradley of the Gull Lake camp and by Patry Marshall on the Camp Council at Sylvan Lake, these being very inspirational. Conference findings, on the Peace Theme were told by Margaret Watt and Edith Jamieson. Causes of war were listed as Jealousy, Greed, Desire for Revenge, Selfishness, Fear, Ambition; and these were also named as the causes of small local quarrels and differences. Working against war are the League of Nations, Disarmament Conference, Marriage Alliance and Student Conference.

Community Singing, in which all joined heartily interspersed the addresses.

Closing Worship period was led by Miss Connie Smith, Girl's Work Board Leader, who left beautiful thoughts of high ideals to inspire the girls throughout the coming year.

Conservative Association

Mrs. David Gilmore was elected to the office of Vice-President of the Lacombe Women's Conservative Association at the second meeting of that organization held at home of Mrs. G. P. Johnston on Tuesday evening, Oct. 30th. Officers elected at the organization meeting in July were: Pres. Mrs. G. P. Johnston, Secretary, Mrs. P. W. Frost, Treas., Mrs. A. Gilmore.

Plans for arousing interest, increasing membership, and ways and means of raising funds were discussed. It was decided to meet monthly on third Tuesday evening, and plans are being made to make the November meeting a social affair. Mr. W. E. Payne, M.P.P., Red Deer, is to be asked to give an address and key women in surrounding points are to be written with a view to creating a Council and carrying the work to all part of the Lacombe district.

Successful Bazaar Tea

The bazaar committee of the United Church Ladies Aid, held a very successful tea at the home of Mrs. Douglas Wilson. 48 ladies were present. A short programme was given. Mrs. Samuelsen gave a humorous reading and Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Harrow presented an up-to-date sketch. Miss Dittler was pianist.

WHAT FOLLOWS?

Hon. H. H. Stevens has been made to walk the plank, and the booters are now in full and undisputed control of the ship.

That embarrassing pamphlet has been accused. Those "factious" speeches have brought their penalty. The disturber of sweet harmony between the Bennett Government and its financial allies has been eliminated.

The remaining Ministers have been taken a lesson. They know now, and the parliamentary supporters of the Government know, that any one of them who dares to protest against the domination of financial backers of the cabinet will be marked man. The fate of Mr. Stevens is a warning to all who show a disposition to follow his lead. Hereafter it is to be a cabinet of "yes men" exclusively.

What follows? Will the enquiry into the ramifications of financial backbiting be called off? Time will tell. It is safe guessing that either the enquiry will be suppressed or it will be continued within the narrow confines of carefully drawn lines, which will prevent it straying into the forbidden areas where the cabinet's allies carry on their exploitative operations.

There was nothing personal in the racketeers' pursuit of Mr. Stevens. They only drove him out because he was interfering with their business, not because they had anything against him as a man, or anything against his views on broad questions of public policy. His meddling committee did some of its probing in wrong places, that was all, and that was enough. Did they cashier Mr. Stevens in order to allow some other man to continue the enquiry along the same lines? Not very likely. —Edmonton Bulletin.

ODDFELLOWS-REBEKAHS DANCE A GREAT SUCCESS

The large crowd that attended the Oddfellows-Rebeekah's first dance of the season thoroughly enjoyed the evening of dancing. The hall was nicely decorated in orange and black streamers, giving a festive effect. At midnight, right after lunch, paper hats and noise-makers were handed out, and the noise they made could be heard a block. The supper, served about 11:30 was most plentiful and tasty and was greatly enjoyed. Bob Paulsen and His Band supplied the music which was real pep, and kept the dancers stepping lively right till the end of the dance. Everyone present had the time of their lives, and all look forward to the next dance put on by the Oddfellows and Rebekahs, which will be held on Tuesday, November 13th.

"Fresh from the Gardens"

The Forty-Ninth Parallel

An interesting and thought-provoking editorial article appeared recently in a popular magazine which circulates extensively throughout Canada and the United States. Its subject was the forty-ninth parallel across the world. The people of the North American continent regard it as an imaginary line which marks the boundary between the United States and Canada, but says this magazine editor, the wise ones of the earth regard it as something more than a hair line on the earth's globe. It is, he says, the world's line of destiny.

Elaborating his thesis he first directs attention to the fact that in America this invisible international boundary line is a line of peace. No frowning fortifications dot its length; no jealousies are pent up along its borders; no racial hatreds better its boundaries. For more than one hundred years it has been a line of peace, a magnificent contradiction of the Old World's barbaric philosophy that two neighboring countries cannot long exist without strife.

But tracing the course of the forty-ninth parallel around the globe, he finds that the symbol of peace in North America becomes the blood-drenched line of strife throughout Europe and Asia, cleaving through the very heart of the world's worst trouble zones. He continues:

"The 'line of peace', upon spanning the Pacific, marks the frontier of Asia's powder magazine—the northern boundary of Manchukuo. On one side the armies of the Soviet Union maintain their well-armed vigil. On the other Japan hides her line in the puppet state that typifies her first triumphant toe-hold on the mainland of Asia.

"Travel with the 'line of peace' across the flux and change of the new Red Russia and note its sinister significance as it pierces the inner core of European turmoil. It traverses the Polish Corridor, constant source of statesmen's uneasy slumbers; flanks Austria's troubled boundaries; bisects a re-armed Germany; skirts the frontier of France at the most jealous point of national pride, historic Alsace-Lorraine; tops the rim of armored steel that mark Belgium's silent frontiers; then wings the Atlantic for its more pacific mission on this continent."

And he asks why should this 'line of peace' assume such a devilish perversion in its travel round the globe, and finds the answer in the character of the nations it touches rather than in the nature of the line itself.

All of which is true. In North America the two adjoining nations are peopled by those who speak a common language and who, although there can be a great intermingling of many races, still trace their main descent to one racial source and have proved their ability to, in large measure, assimilate these newcomers of many races and all have largely forgotten, or dropped, the old animosities, suspicions, jealousies and hatreds of by-gone centuries which are nourished and kept alive in the countries of the Old World.

America is fortunate in this, and stands as an object lesson to all other lands. This being so, have we been as good neighbors as we ought to have been; have we taken full advantage of and respected all the benefits that should have been ours as a result of our preferred position? True, we have kept the peace in a physical sense in that we have refrained from war, and the incessant folly of building up huge armaments one against the other on the false assumption that only through such so-called "preparedness" can peace be maintained.

But the forty-ninth parallel across North America is not quite the imaginary line it might well have been to the advancement and benefit of people living on both sides of it. There are no forts, but there are all too many legislative barriers imposed along its entire length by both countries, barriers on the one side being duplicated by similar barriers on the other side.

We build our roads on both sides to meet and merge at the boundary line; we construct our railways to the same gauge in order that trains may move without pause from one country to the other, without trans-shipment of passengers or goods; the ether waves flow uninterrupted across the line carrying radio messages to and fro, and the same is true of the telegraph and telephone; our books and newspapers and magazines, our automobiles, cross and re-cross the line without restriction or loss of time; our trades unions are international in their character; so, too, are our fraternal societies and service clubs; our sporting organizations vie with each other on common fields.

Being so favored, and having done so much to promote our common interests in so many ways, and having developed an international friendliness unknown elsewhere, and having utilized all that science and invention has bestowed in order to promote this fine and mutually advantageous intercourse, why have we proceeded to erect artificial barriers to check and stop the flow of trade which all these other agencies have been perfected to encourage and develop? The people of both countries are deemed to be highly intelligent; they are not inmates of lunatic asylums. Then why have they acted so absurdly as to hamper and cripple that which they have spent untold millions of money and energy to encourage?

There is only one answer, and that answer is to be found in the cupidity of men individually and collectively, on both sides of the "line of peace." Nature designed that the northern half of this great continent should be the complement of and to the southern half. The Maritime Provinces with their resources are the natural complement of the Atlantic seaboard States; Quebec and Ontario are the complement of the Central States; the Prairie Provinces are the complement of the middle western States right down to the Gulf; British Columbia is the complement of the Pacific coast States. Yet puny man tries to defy Nature and, as a result, has made a sorry mess of things throughout the whole realm of trade and commerce, finance and economics.

The forty-ninth parallel across North America is a splendid object lesson to all nations except in this one respect. Let these two great peoples do the sensible thing and set another object lesson for and provide leadership to a world now suffering because of the wholesale destruction of international trade.

Pearl Fishers' Hard Luck

Probably Largest One Ever Found Destroyed By Worm

An enormous pearl, which would have been worth $20,000, has been found by divers off Bathurst Island—ruined by a worm, which had eaten through the oyster-shell and into the heart of the pearl.

The pearl, states a Reuter message from Darwin, would probably have been the largest ever discovered.

As some compensation for this trick of fate, the same pearl fishers have found another pearl, worth $2,000, of such beauty that a French pearl buyer is making a special trip to bid for it.—News of the World.

A census of dead animals on roads of England has shown that dogs are the great "jay walkers."

Few People Escape Attacks Of Summer Complaint

Summer Complaint may be slight, or it may be serious, but you can't tell when it seizes you how it may end. Allow the profuse diarrhea, the vomiting and purging to continue, for a day or two, and you may become weak and prostrated.

Just as soon as you feel any looseness of the bowels go at once to your nearest drug store and get Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry and check this untoward action before the weakening looseness can get started.

Don't experiment. Get "Dr. Fowler's." It has been on the market for 88 years.

Richest Street In World

Shops Of Curio Dealers In Delhi, India, Contain Many Treasures

What is the richest street in the world? Without taking into account the environs of the Stock Exchange and Wall Street, where unseen fortunes change hands, the little-known Chandni Chowk in Delhi has substantial claims. It has often been referred to as the richest street in Asia, and, unlike our own commercial thoroughfares, the greater part of its wealth is there for all to see.

But many are the treasures which are hidden away in secret recesses of the shops of curio dealers and jewellers in that picturesque street. One of the dealers, the walls of whose establishment are covered with letters of appointment from Highnesses and Excellencies of all descriptions, has manufactured countries wonderful golden and jewelled embroideries for crowned heads and ruling princes.

He was responsible for the historic peacock gown, costing no less than one thousand pounds, which the late Lady Curzon wore at the Durbar Ball, attended by four thousand guests in the Delhi Fort in 1908. Here also are all the richest of the embroidery merchants, whose cloths and cloaks, scintillating with costly ornaments, are not only intended for reigning princes, but for State elephants. Here, too, are the carvers of ivory, and the traveler can see them chiseling their skill in carving delicate figures and animals from solid blocks of ivory, sawn from elephants' tusks.

Refused Pardon Offered To Him Many Years Ago

When an aristocratic young German subaltern fell haplessly in the state penitentiary at Macalester, Okla., is the story of Conrad Maas, who eloped with a beautiful peasant girl and brought her to America in 1899, then slew her with an axe.

Maas pleaded insanity after the crime, but he was convicted of murder and sentenced to life imprisonment. In the penitentiary he took up painting and won wide recognition for his portraits of presidents of the United States and religious subjects.

Efforts were made to secure a parole for him, but, independent and proud, he said: "If the governor wants to see me, let him come here."

When the parole was offered to him again he rejected it, saying: "No one knows me now. My release from the penitentiary would 'only mean transfer to the poorhouse. I prefer to stay here with my friends.'"

Maas' family have repeatedly sought his release, but on the independence has been their worst obstacle and now, nearing 80, he still spends his days with palette and brush beneath a prison window.

Requires Some Work

Britain Plants 52,000,000 Trees Annually To Keep Up Woodlands

No wonder visitors to British remarks on the beauty and productivity of her woodlands; the Forestry Commissioners plant annually about 52,000,000 new trees, upon land acquired for that special purpose.

In their annual report, the fourteenth, just issued, the commissioners state that they acquire each year the same acreage of plantable land as that planted, so that the work in hand and the number of men employed in doing it remain the same.

Last year 10,000 acres were added to the woodlands by this enterprise. In all well over a quarter of a million acres have been planted, mostly with conifers.

Drought and high temperatures last year added to the difficulty. The number of woodland fires touched a high record—623 in all. Sparks from railway engines started 50 per cent. of them; 19 per cent. were due to pile carelessness.

Since the commissioners began operations 726,698 acres have been acquired for reforestation; 60 per cent. in England and Wales, 40 per cent. in Scotland.

The average price for such land was £2 10s. 3d per acre.

Review Of Drought Conditions Affords Appreciable Picture Of Situation In Various Countries

A review of the drought conditions of 1934, issued under date of August 15, 1934, by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, affords an appreciable picture of the situation in various countries, particularly in the United States, arising from the unusual scarcity of rainfall which has characterized the summer of this year.

The drought has been widespread throughout the northern hemisphere. The affected areas fall within a belt crossing Europe, Asia and North America which is about as wide as the distance from Northern Mexico to Central Manitoba. Damage to crops has been particularly heavy in the United States, Canada and in Central and Eastern Europe. In the southern hemisphere, parts of Australia and Argentina have been affected but to a less extent.

In the United States the main drought damage has been to the feed, forage and pasture, necessitating heavy reduction in livestock numbers and reduced rations for the remaining animals. Crop prospects declined nearly 11 per cent. during July because of unfavorable growing conditions practically everywhere except along the Atlantic Coast, in the Eastern cotton belt and in the Pacific Northwest. The most serious loss was a decline of about 24 per cent., or 500,000 bushels, in corn prospects during this period and even the production of corn fodder was seriously reduced. The grain sorghum production will be less than 60 per cent. of average. The continued drought and excessive temperature prevailing over a wide area largely destroyed the emergency forage crop planted, burned pastures, prevented any second growth on hay meadows and stubble fields in many states and further reduced supplies of water for livestock. The worst conditions are in the states of Missouri, Arkansas, nearly all of the Dakotas, Nebraska, Kansas, and Oklahoma, much of Texas and the plains sections of New Mexico, Colorado and Wyoming. There was a further deterioration of range conditions during July in most of the Western States for which range conditions figures are obtained.

Judging from conditions as at August 15th, there will be available for livestock in the United States this year only about 65 per cent. of the usual amount of grain including corn, oats, barley and grain sorghums, and only about 68 per cent. of the usual quantity of hay. Because of the short pastures a considerable amount of the 1934 production of hay had already been consumed by August 15th. Probably not more than half the usual amount of straw has been stacked, but somewhat more than the usual quantity may be fed. For these reasons a rather drastic adjustment in the number of livestock will have to be made before fall and winter feeding begins.

Bread grain crops in Central Europe and the Danubian countries are substantially below the crops of 1932 and 1933. The same is true of feed grains with the exception of parts of the Danube basin, where a substantial exportable surplus is expected. Excepting Northern France, where wheat suffered from drought, and England, where pastures were seriously affected, most of the other parts of Europe have escaped serious damage. Detailed reports on crop conditions in the Soviet Union are not available but it appears that European Russia experienced an unusually dry spring and smaller than average crops are to be expected. In China the reduction in the rice crop because of drought is estimated to be at least 20 per cent. The Manchurian wheat crop is estimated at 30 per cent. below that of 1933 due mainly to excessive rainfall and floods during July. Several parts of the southern hemisphere have reported drought conditions in recent months affecting wheat seedling in areas of Argentina and Australia. The acreage reduction in Argentina due to drought may reach 350,000 acres or about 5 per cent., while in Australia the total wheat acreage reduction of 2,000,000 acres or more (about 15 to 20 per cent.) is in prospect. The acreage reduction in Australia is not altogether due to drought, but in part to a shift to sheep and wool.

The following references to Canadian crop production are from Canadian official sources and indicate the effect of the drought as experienced in Canada.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics, in a bulletin issued September 11, estimates the total yield in bushels as follows: Spring wheat, 270,282,000; Fall wheat, 7,022,000; Oats, 344,746,000; Barley, 68,800,000; Rye, 6,523,000; Flaxseed, 1,096,000. Yields per acre of all grains are below average but are slightly higher than the revised estimates for last year.

The hay and clover crop is estimated at 9,844,000 tons, the lowest on record as compared with 11,433,000 tons in 1933 and an average yearly production of more than 16,000,000 tons for the four years 1929-1930. The fact was therefore well founded that Canada might be faced with a hay shortage, and the Order-in-Council of August 24th was accordingly passed requiring a license for all exports of hay and straw. A subsequent survey of hay supplies indicated some surplus in the Ottawa and St. Lawrence Valleys and to a less extent in a few other areas of Canada, but a shortage in other areas which in many instances is acute.

The Order-in-Council has had the effect of directing attention to the unusual shortage of supply, and the requirement of a license for export has prompted those in needy areas to anticipate their season's requirements, with the result that there is a substantial movement of hay in Canada from the surplus areas to the areas of shortage.

Edmonton Roy Wants To Study Trade Commission Duties

First-hand study of peoples and conditions in Asiatic and European countries as a foundation on which to commence study of trade commission duties as a life work is the object of Ronald Keith, 20-year-old son of H. P. Keith, deputy minister of public works for Alberta, who left Edmonton for Vancouver to sail for Japan. He will be accompanied from Vancouver across the Pacific and on subsequent travel until the return to Edmonton is made, by Donald Menzies, Gadaby high school student.

Ronald Keith graduated from the University of Alberta last spring in arts and during his term there he took a keen interest in international history.

The boys hope to tour Japan, Korea, travel by freighter along the coast of China to Hong Kong, then to India and, finally, through the Mediterranean and return to Canada after a visit to the British Isles. They do not plan to return to Edmonton until about May, 1935.

Lucky Winner In French Lottery Unlucky With Cars

Another car, another crash, is the sad history of Paul Bonheure, clement barber of Tarsarcon, France, and at present the owner of the neat chain of chateaux and stable of plain and fancy automobiles in the Midi.

Since that eventful day last year when he won 5,000,000 francs in the first French National Lottery drawing, Bonheure has taken his place with Tartarin as the most illustrious citizen of the legendary town of Tarsarcon. In fact Tartarin and Bonheure are kindred spirits, the chief difference being that Tartarin talked about himself, while Bonheure makes other people talk about him. Lucky in lotteries, unlucky in automobiles, is the reason why.

Since Bonheure collected his 5,000,000 francs he has lost his one, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine, ten, eleven, twelve, thirteen, fourteen, fifteen, sixteen, seventeen, eighteen, Cuffs make Slender Wrists

IN THESE VAN RAALTE GLOVES

OF SUEDE FABRIC

You'll like the skyscraper build of the cuffs... the way those three tiers tower above the cuff of your coat or suit. The widening at the top makes the wrists look delightfully slender and feminine. Two tiers are mixture toned and the center one is plain.

A. M. CAMPBELL, Ltd

YOUR RECTOR

Every time a Parish is vacant the committee appointed to find a new Rector are not slow to tell what they expect. If you question them you will likely find that they are looking for a man who is a combination of an archangel and a business executive. Not long ago some one enumerated the qualities and capacities necessary in a Clergyman as pastoral visitation, sound common sense with a touch of humour, general business instincts and preaching ability. Various terms were in that order. The list leaves out the greatest of all, which is a spiritual experience. This would bring about a good many of the others as its result. Certainly the sermons of a man with a definite spiritual experience would be more sincere and potent, more direct and effective, than those of one who was telling what he had read in a book or seen in others, but had not known in himself.

Anyone can criticize a Clergyman, or any man, for that matter. The defenders of the Rector are sometimes few and mildly spoken, the critics are generally aggressive and use louder tones. When life is born, when marriage bells ring gladly, when the angel of death has knocked at the door, the Clergyman is sent for at once. One writer describes the horns of criticism to which the Clergyman is exposed in these words: "If he uses slang, he is sensational; if he uses correct English, he is a high brow. If he attacks present day evil, he is a demagogue; if he doesn't, he is a spineless coward. If he dresses well, he is extravagant and stuck up; if he doesn't he is untidy and parsimonious. If his audience are small, he is a poor preacher; if he fills the edifice every Sunday, he is a seeker after notoriety. If he preaches about the sins of the old Testament, he is not up-to-date; if he preaches about life sine of his own congregation and city, the wealthy contributors and politician members withdraw their support."

My plea is that if you see a fault in your Clergyman, go tell it to him and him alone. He will be very glad to be told, if he is the right sort. It is so much kinder to tell him than to tell it all over the Parish as most people do. He is the one most interested after all. Loyalty is a grand old word, and like a draught of water to the thirsty. Then, too, commence praying for your Clergyman. "More things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of," as Emerson reminds us. It is remarkable how different people appear to us after we have prayed for them. Wonders may happen to your Clergyman and also to you. I like that remark of one Rector: "My congregation got a new Rector without losing the old one." Think awhile on that remark. Could such a speech be said of you? If so, you may help your Rector to a similar experience.
